What does reasonable adjustment mean to the student	If a person with a disability meets essential entry requirements, the RTO must make changes or "reasonable adjustments" necessary for that person to perform their course-work. In most situations, the student with a disability will be able to tell the RTO what he or she needs to be able to study. If necessary, the RTO should also seek advice from disability areas within government departments or organisations that represent or provide services to people with a disability. Adjustments may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Modifying educational premises. For example, making ramps, modifying toilets and ensuring that classes are in rooms accessible to the person with a disability.</li> <li>• Modifying or providing equipment. For example, lowering lab benches, enlarging computer screens, providing specific computer software or an audio loop system.</li> <li>• Changing assessment procedures. For example, allowing for alternative examination methods such as oral exams, or allowing additional time for someone else to write an exam for a person with a disability.</li> <li>• Changing course delivery. For example, providing study notes or research materials in different formats or providing a sign language interpreter for a deaf person.</li> </ul>
Physical disability	A person with a disability has the right to study at an educational institution in the same way as any other student. The Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 1992 makes it illegal for an educational authority to discriminate against persons with a disability. A registered training organisation (RTO) may not prejudice and must offer people with a disability the same educational opportunities as everyone else. The DDA protects people with a disability against discrimination in education, such as: Admission: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Refusal or failure to accept an application for admission from a person with a disability</li> <li>• Accepting a person with a disability as a student on less favourable terms or conditions than others. For example, asking a person with a disability to pay higher fees.</li> </ul> Access: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Denying or limiting access to people with a disability. For example, delivering lectures in an inaccessible format, inaccessible student facilities.</li> <li>• Subjecting a person with a disability to any other detriment such as discriminatory selection criteria.</li> </ul>

Language, Literacy and Numeracy Support	Students needing language, literacy and numeracy (LLN) support are identified on application. In most cases, LLN support can be provided. Where only a low level of support is needed, the program manager may arrange for the student to receive extra-curricular assistance from the trainer or other staff member. Where extensive support is needed, specialised LLN classes may be set up. This will attract a fee. Where an applicant's LLN deficiency will clearly inhibit achievement of learning outcomes and the applicant refuses LLN support, enrolment may be declined.
Where to go for additional support	If you feel that you have any problems with literacy and numeracy, we can arrange contact support units are: The Adult Literacy Information Office (TAFE NSW) Phone 131601 or Centrelink Literacy &amp; Numeracy Training Phone 132850 or Southern Region Community College 1300 655 296 who have a certificate in General Education for Adults, which is a literacy program for adults to gain skills for employment and further training opportunities.
